Technical Specification

Our Doors

Our doors are crafted using grained and smooth impact-resistant GRP SMC skins, available in a wide range of styles and colors, including wood stains. The stiles and rails are made from water-resistant pure PVC polymer and reinforced with LVL (laminated veneered lumber) timbers, boasting a minimum density of 570 kg/m^3.

The SMC skins and sub-frame door assembly are fully bonded with Urethane Adhesive Resin. The door is filled with CFC-free polyurethane foam, an excellent insulation material that significantly reduces heat transfer through the door. With a density of 44.5-45.5 kg/m^3, this insulation can help achieve U-values as low as 0.8 W/m^2K as part of a doorset assembly.

Security

The door slab and glazing system are essential components of any doorset. The capstone slab, reinforced with SecureDesign board and paired with our glazing cassette systems, forms a reliable combination that meets the PAS24:2016 enhanced security standard. This certification is necessary to comply with Secured by Design, a police initiative to prevent unlawful entry, and Document Q of the Building Regulations.

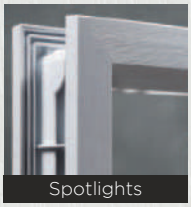

Our door slabs are produced under the BM Trada Q-Mark scheme for quality, ensuring full traceability of all factory processes.

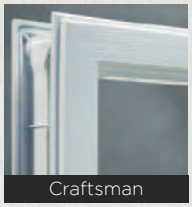

Glazing and Ancillary Options

Glazing cassettes used to frame our glass are available in four options (door design dependent) and are fully de-glazeable should there be need to change the glass.

Glass Units

All double and triple glazed units used in our doors are manufactured to the highest standards and come with recognised accreditations for performance, strength, and thermal efficiency.

Each unit is made with toughened glass, which is up to five times stronger than ordinary annealed glass and complies with EN12150, the international standard for safety glass.

For enhanced security, glazing options can be upgraded by replacing the outer pane of toughened glass with 6.8mm laminated glass. This laminated glass consists of two sheets of annealed glass bonded together with a vinyl plastic interlayer, effectively preventing break-ins.

All sealed units are manufactured to the BS EN1279 standard, ensuring the quality of components and the integrity of the seal, which is backed by a 10-year manufacturer's warranty.
